

CDI Interim Staffing: expertise when you need it most

Maximize your CDI effectiveness with on-call, expert resources.

The complexity of the clinical documentation specialists' (CDS) role has changed, as has how—and where—they function. CDI teams must be balanced with a unique mix of clinical nursing skills, knowledge of CDI best practices that impact core metrics, and the ability to collaborate with the entire care team.

Disparities in CDI coverage can impact the team's performance or ability to deliver the clinical quality and financial outcomes your organization has earned.

Manage operational and strategic challenges

Nuance CDI Interim Staffing helps organizations solve operational and strategic challenges including:

- Staff losses due to FMLA, LOA, and resignations.
- Small candidate pool for open positions due to geographic location or salary constraints.
- Inability to review payers beyond Medicare, because not staffed to do so.
- Poor quality data, including mortality rate and PSIs, due to underdocumented conditions.
- Dropping review rate due to novice CDS staff.

The Nuance difference

Nuance offers interim staffing solutions to augment CDI teams during or after CDE One implementation, and to support program expansion. More than just personnel to review charts, Nuance CDI Interim Staffing includes:

- Advanced Practice CDI standards for productivity, clarification, and physician response rate.
- Concurrent review of quality indicators that impact reimbursement and quality measures.
- CDS professionals experienced in complex medical cases, trauma, oncology, transplant, and complex surgical procedures.
- Dedicated team of clinically trained RNs, with most carrying CCDS credentials.
- CDI professionals trained to use all Nuance CDI solutions and Advanced Practice CDI methodologies.

“When we needed to increase our chart review percentage—we turned to Nuance. They’ve always been responsive, professional, and focused on exceeding our expectations. It’s good to have a partner that knows what needs to be done, and delivers accordingly.”
